Knoxville Turn Verein.

There will be a special meeting of the Knoxville Turn Verein this evening at 8 o'clock. All the members are requested to be present, as business of importance is to be transacted.
By order of the President.
S. B. BINSINGER.

On Fire.

A horseman was riding along Hill street yesterday when he noticed that his clothes were on fire. He was informed of the fact and the fire was extinguished before much damage was done.

Railroad Items.

The travel on the roads is moderate now.
The change in the schedule makes it very inconvenient for omnibus men, ticket agents, &c., in their attendance upon the arrival of trains.
On and after to-morrow afternoon the train in the Knoxville and Charleston road will leave this place for Maryville at 2:40 instead of 3 o'clock.

Thanksgiving.

Turkeys grow dependent as the month wanes; "good fat capons" contemplate with dismay their approaching fate, and the whole "military gallinosa" tribe gobbles lugubriously that Thanksgiving ever was invented. But it should comfort them in their dying hour to know that nearly all of them will be stuffed with the finest oysters that can be had at the famous molluscan emporiums of either John Schert, Barry & McDonald, or Peter Kern or Nic Effler. Two weeks from now there will certainly be a "slaughter of the innocents."

The Bridge.

The work on the bridge moves on briskly. R.
Edgington and M. F. Smith have taken a subcontract. The foundation stones of the pier are being laid rapidly on the north bank of the river, in spite of the rapid rise of water in the pit. It requires a large pump running continually to keep the water out. Some one suggests that this pump be connected to the top of the bridge, when completed, through pipes and thus form a fountain which will be both useful and ornamental.

Pigeon Hunter.

Mr. Charles Copelin, the pigeon hunter of Pennsylvania, left for his home yesterday, after a hunt of some weeks about Ooltewah. Some time ago we noticed the fact that this gentleman and two others had followed the pigeons from Michigan to the State. The other gentlemen went to the hunt at the same time and returned home. Mr. Copelin started to Indiana, but when he returned by Ooltewah he heard of the pigeons being again in the neighborhood, and stopped, and has been netting the birds since that time. He caught forty-nine, and shipped one and a half barrels to the New York market.

Needs Attention.

The case of Aunt Betty Hickman, the crazy old woman who wanders about our streets, needs the attention of some humane person or persons.
Why is she allowed to wander around and be a pest to citizens, and also expose herself to the inclemency of the weather, when the State has prepared a place for just such persons? She will more than likely be found dead upon the street some cold morning unless cared for. A civilized community should have some public officer whose business it should be to look after such persons, when private charity will not do so.

The Meeting at Prospect Church.

This meeting, to which respect was made a few days ago, is progressing with increased interest. On Sunday eighteen were baptized, and there were thirty-three mourners Sunday night. It is thought that the meeting will continue through the week.

An incident connected with this meeting is worthy of record. Among those who came forward on Saturday night to join the church was a very small boy—less than ten years old.
It being impossible for the congregation to see the little fellow, Dr. Brinker placed him on a table in front of the pulpit, where he gave such a clear account of his Christian experience as to satisfy every one of his conversion. The congregation listened in breathless silence to the recital; but when it was ended, they could restrain their feeling no longer, but broke forth in exclamations of praise and thanksgiving. The little fellow, who had been written by a gentleman present, and will be published in a religious paper.

Building Association.

We have a Mechanics' Association here in Knoxville, composed of earnest, good men—among whom are several of the most active and enterprising—who are now devising ways and means to best promote their individual and collective interests. At the meeting to be held on Friday night next an important report from a committee, of which Mr. Charlton is chairman, is expected. Every member should be present on that occasion.

The mechanics at the West end of the State are not doing so well. They have already organized a Mechanics' Building and Loan Association, and gone to work in earnest.
John D. Danbury, the President, is a blacksmith, a man of intelligence and active enterprise; and, although well known for years as forger, he is equally well known for his sterling integrity and devotion to every duty. The main objects of the association are to secure a place of deposit for small earnings, and to enable members to acquire homes.

The capital stock is limited to $100,000, divided into shares of $100 each, of which no one can hold more than twenty. The monthly dues are two dollars per share until the one hundred dollars are paid, when the association will become a private division of the assets. No stockholders are to be paid until all are subscribed for.
A membership fee of two dollars on each share is also required at the outset. No other demands than these can be made of members.
The association is managed by a Board of Directors, who cannot permit more than $5,000 to accumulate in their hands. A member borrowing money of the association, or renting a house with a view to become the owner thereof, at the ordinary cost of rental, may, at such excess will be applied to the payment of the purchase of the house. All loans are to be secured by real estate.

What every mechanic most needs, and should have, is a home.

Our Knoxville association, being composed of men of character and intelligence, is certain to mature such a plan as will best subserve their own interests, but we could not resist calling attention to the active energy that is characterizing our brethren in Memphis, with whom we should be in active fellowship.

Married.

At the residence of the bride's mother, in Dandridge, Tenn., on Tuesday, the 14th of November, 1871, by Rev. Joseph H. Martin, Gen. Joel A. Dewey and Miss Virginia Josephine Branner, both of Dandridge.

The wedding was very quiet on account of the death of a relation of the bride. The ceremony was performed on Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock, and the happy pair immediately left for Richmond, Va., on their bridal tour. Gen.
Dewey is one of the most promising young lawyers in this Judicial Circuit, holds the office of Attorney General, and performs his duties with responsibility and honor and credit alike to himself and his constituents, and is honored and respected by all who know him for his many noble qualities and sterling virtues. The lovely bride is one of the fairest and most lovely of these days, a fair daughter, whose many accomplishments of both head and heart make her the ornament of society and the loved of all who know her. To the gallant bridegroom and his lovely bride we bid God-speed, hoping that if any cloud overshadows their future, it may have a silver lining.

enced to ten months' labor in the work house.

The "Devil" Superceded.

A Scotchman by the name of Mackie has recently invented a steam type-setting machine, the capacity of which is very great. It is said to set 12,000 ems in an hour. He is now constructing one that will set 49,000 an hour.

The operator, it is said, need never see the inside of a printing office.

What Knoxville Needs.

A public library.
A commodious lecture hall;
A system of water works;
A passenger depot;
A new court house;
A smaller number of bar rooms and a much greater number of manufactories.

Street Improvements.

A new pavement is being laid on Main street, between State and Crozier streets. Improvements are also going on near Prince street, on Main.

Personal.

Our young friend, Will L. Hall, left last night on the midnight train for Montereal, to try his fortune in the great and growing West. We predict that wherever he goes he will make his mark. We have known Will for a number of years, and always found him a straightforward, upright young man, full of energy and "pluck"—the elements of certain success. We regret that East Tennessee should lose her young men, but our young friend has our most hearty wishes for his unbounded success in his new field.

Cold Weather.

Although its coming was long delayed, stern winter is now upon us with its ice, its frost, its snow, and its cold, piercing winds. To the rich who roll in luxury and keep hot fires in abundant, this is not unpleasant news, but the pen-niless poor gather closer around their miserable fires, and as the wind whistles over their wretched hovels, it is to them a sound of woe.
In your charity, remember the poor.

WHOLESALE MARKET REPORT

COLLECTED DAILY BY
J. W. GAUT,

Produce and Commission Merchant, Market Place, Knoxville, Tennessee.

KNOXVILLE, TENN., Nov. 14, 1871.

At no time since the reorganization of business since the war, has money been so scarce in East Tennessee as now. The failure of our Wheat crop, the low price of Bacon, and a general indispotion on the part of farmers to accept the situation—that is to sell at market value—all conspire to produce this state of things.
Is it right? Does the policy of withholding the products of the country from market promote the interest of the farmer, the mechanic the merchant? Let the accumulated tax bills, the unpaid store and bank account of the farmer answer—let the unemployed mechanic answer—let the merchant, with empty shelves and large balances on the debtor side of his ledger, answer.

But the former complains that the price offered for their Corn, Oats, Hay, Hogs, Cattle, &c., is below the cost of production. Perhaps it is, but will holding it increase the value? Let the experience of the past year answer. There is a surplus of Corn, Oats, Hay, Hogs and cattle. Will producers place this surplus upon the market? It will be placed in the cotton-growing States, and if you will sell at prices corresponding to prices obtained by Western producers, we can get the money for it.
